Teacher of Chivalry . . . Master of Learning

Probably every college has someone that all who are associated with the institution are proud to know and never forget. At Sewanee we boast of Tudor Seymour Long. For thirty years Mr. Long has been a friend of Sewanee. After receiving his A.B. from Cornell he began teaching in the English Department there.

He came to Sewanee in 1922 and liked it so well that he never left. He has held almost every important faculty committee post and was for a time editor of the Sewanee Review. In 1942 he became head of the English Department—a position he still holds. No student leaves the Mountain unfamiliar with the stories of Mr. Long's impersonations of Shakespeare's characters, his sharp wit and his helping hand. To truly a man who is devoted to Sewanee and to whom Sewanee is truly devoted, we make this

They Make the POLICIES

Acting as the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees and elected by the Trustees, the Board of Regents meets officially three times annually and is composed of three Bishops, three Presbyters, and six laymen of the Episcopal Church. The Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellor act in the capacity of ex-officio members. Among the Board of Regent's powers of maintenance and government of the University are those of approving all faculty appointments, approving plans for and financing new buildings, and conferring honorary degrees.

- THE REV. CANON WILLIAM S. TURNER New Orleans, La.

The CHANCELLOR

The Right Reverend R. Bland Mitchell, Bishop of the Diocese of Arkansas, was elected June 9, 1950, to the office of Chancellor of the University of the South. Serving as Chancellor for a term of six years, Bishop Mitchell acts as ex-officio president of the Board of Trustees.

Unlike many American colleges and universities, the Chancellorship of the University of the South is an honorary office, while the Vice-Chancellor is the actual President of the University. This idea was inherited, just as the academic gowns were, from Oxford University in England.

Bishop Mitchell received B.A., B.D., and D.D. degrees from the University of the South. Since his graduation from the School of Theology, Bishop Mitchell has served as director of the Board of Missions, as a member of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Regents of the University of the South, and as a member of the Board of Trustees at All-Saints College in Vicksburg, Mississippi.

Vice-Chancellor and President

Something About the VICE-CHANCELLOR

"A man of wondrous faith and energy" would perhaps come closest to describing Dr. Edward McCrady, Sewanee's eleventh Vice-Chancellor and president. When on October 10, 1952 he donned officially the scarlet and ermine of his office, the University of the South acquired a truly "Sewanee Man." Dr. McCrady's relation to the Mountain dates back to his grandfather who was the first head of the Biology Department; and to the church, to his father who was an Episcopal minister. He received his A.B. from the College of Charleston, his M.S. from the University of Pittsburg and his Ph.D. in Biology from the University of Pennsylvania. His pre-eminence in the biological sciences is confirmed by his position as head of the biology division of the Atomic Energy Commission prior to coming to Sewanee as acting Vice-Chancellor in 1951. But even more as just a personality we are prone to boast of our new president. His skill at music and art is indeed competent. His speeches are thoughtful and profitable. His home is warm and gracious. Dr. McCrady's aim is set on improvement and above all, the perpetuation of all Sewanee stands for. It has been said that big tasks require big men. Sewanee rests assured.

The Doctor relaxes in his study, something he rarely has time for.

Bishop Mitchell pronounces the words that will make Dr. McCrady officially the eleventh Vice-Chancellor, October 10, 1952.

DEAN OF ADMINISTRATION

Dr. Gaston Swindell Bruton, acts as Vice-Chancellor during the absence of the Vice-Chancellor from the University. Supervision of matrons, proctors, housing, and responsibility for the physical maintenance of the University properties compose the duties of the Dean.

Dr. Bruton received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of North Carolina and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. In addition to serving as Dean of the Administration, he is also head of the department of mathematics.

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

Dr. Charles Trawick Harrison, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, is a graduate and holder of a B.A. degree from the University of Alabama and a holder of M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University. Charged with the responsibility of academic and faculty rule and requirement, Dr. Harrison handles such matters as course credits, transfer records, changes in courses, and academic records.

DEAN OF MEN

Dr. James Miller Grimes, who is also chairman of the faculty Committee on Discipline, is responsible in matters of social interest, student relations and problems, class attendance, and chapel attendance. In actual practice all matters which are non-academic in nature fall under the jurisdiction of the Dean of Men.

Dr. Grimes holds an A.B., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from the University of North Carolina and is professor of history in the University.

Memories, Warm and Wonderful

This is the story of Sewanee in the college years of 1952-53. It is a unique story because so is Sewanee. Located 2,000 feet up on the Cumberland Mountain Range about fifty miles northwest of Chattanooga, the school is more like a resort isolated from the conflicts of the world. In addition Sewanee values a tradition of heritage: from Oxford we get our architecture and our gowns; from the Episcopal Church, our owner, we get our support and guidance; from the South, we get our credo of courtesy and manners. But still, from youthfulness, we get our spirit, our vigor, our acquisitiveness, our life. Sewanee is where the professors know the boys as well as the boys know the professors. It is where the matron has open house and Christmas parties. It is where the many caves and hollows invite exploration, and where a date is really a date. So is the theme of our book of the year of 1953 devoted—to the life that goes into making Sewanee, the Men, the Diversions, the Teams, the Brotherhood—it is all part of the Mountain which is Sewanee.

Gailor Hall, newest addition to the campus dormitories, combines with a dining hall. Here the photographer has captured a night view of the impressive arch light at the front entrance.

COLLEGE LIFE AT SEWANEE

Sewanee Life . . . it is something far away, something isolated from the cities but not the world . . . it is where learning is living, and living is learning. It begins in the fall . . . autumn, long and full and fresh—high up in the clouds nested in green and brown and red and yellow. The air is clear and sweet . . . the leaves are brighter . . . the atmosphere is lighter. No noise, no traffic, no hustling, no hurry—just living. And thus is how Sewanee greets its family—some old, some new but they all settle quickly as Sewanee life becomes college life and they both become synonymous . . . throned high in sunlit air . . . robed in rich glory . . . cliff crested . . . tower crowned . . . far famed in story . . . where the tree tops kiss the clouds at Sewanee.

Sewanee provides many caves for hours of exploration for both students and the king of campus mascots—the mighty Hrothgar.

Dr. Malcolm Owen and Ross Evans discuss some problems of Biology in the Quadrangle. Oftentimes classes are held in this spot in the center of the campus.

The landmark of the Mountain is the Breslin Tower which heads the archway that connects the Library and Walsh Hall. It makes an impressive picture from any angle.

Amateur vocalists air their talents in a gathering at an open house.

Professor Kayden explains a point to a group of students.

The German dances leave many memories of wonderful weekends.

The new Gailor Dining Hall was a big surprise when we returned in September. It holds a crowd of over 500 and an amplifier is needed to read announcements. The room is soundproof and new throughout. The main complaint is that it is "too clean and too quiet."

It Was Brim Full of Fun . . .

Sewanee life—its echoes are so many. Bull sessions in the dorm . . . open house at the matrons . . . coffee at the union . . . Captain Video at the Owl Flick . . . the rolling cans . . . tomato juice on Sunday morning. . . . Pretty girls in fluffy gowns and penguin like boys in tux . . . no-breaks . . . the pledge parade and then the Eagle . . . double flick on Wednesday and profs houses on Sunday night . . . the dorm Christmas parties . . . the competition of Blue Key Interfraternity Sing . . . and the wild imagination of skit night . . . chapels and "free rides" . . . the glass racket when the lights went out at Gailor . . . Purple Masque at the inverted Quonset . . . the sudden burst of a firecracker at 2 a. m. . . . nine and five at the S.P.O. . . . the exams, the cramming, the homesickness. Like a jigsaw puzzle going together to form a complete picture—of gaiety, sadness, anxiety and fun—beautifully woven into Sewanee.

Chapel attendance was one of the most frequent scenes on the campus. This event was required to occur at least three times a week and seven Sundays a semester. The daily service of Morning Prayer lasts about fifteen minutes. In this picture many students are wearing their R.O.T.C. uniforms. Gownsmen are required to wear their gowns to chapel in addition to all classes.

Another accomplishment of the photographer is the scene in this picture where he snapped an unusual night view of the College library. The building has many stained glass windows and is oak panelled inside with many portraits of Sewanee's founders, bishops and former vice-chancellors on the walls.

Between classes a favorite place for bull sessions is on the stone benches in the quadrangle.

... Atop the Mount

Sewanee life—it sounds of the ringing of chapel bells for noon service and the strains of S.M.A.'s "Onward Christian Soldiers". Its paths and halls and lodges carry echoes of laughter, of songs, of learning. The sparkle of a girl's voice on the much-anticipated dance week-end . . . the picnics on the Mountain's edge . . . the crackle of pine limbs in the fire . . . the sputter of roasting marshmallows . . . a frenzied tying of a black bow and hurried adjusting of hoops and then . . . the melody of the orchestra under the starry-decorated sky of Ormond-Simkins Gym. Activities—so many . . . frat pledges in wildest costume engaged in strange pursuits . . . Greek shindigs . . . parisiens, pajama, shipwreck, "Bitter Rice," anything for a party.

Science Hall, one of Sewanee's most complete buildings, was a gift to the University by Mr. Andrew Carnegie. It houses the Chemistry, Physics, Biology and Forestry Departments.

This jam is one of the commonest occurrences seen in the Student Union between classes as those who "sacked" past breakfast grab a cup of that life-liquid—coffee.

Mr. W. Gilbert Dent III
Editor, 1953 Cap and Gown
University of the South
Sewanee, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Dent:

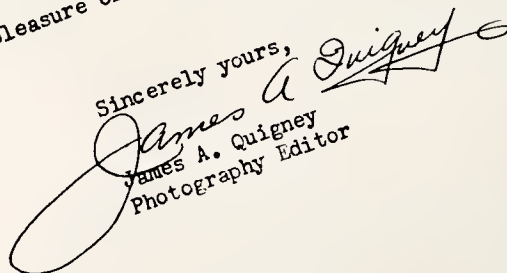

I am deeply grateful for the opportunity of viewing the nine photographs submitted by students of the University of the South for the express purpose of selecting as my choice Miss Sewanee and the three next best.

Frankly it was a rather difficult task for they are all very attractive. I could appreciate too that the photographs in many respects do not do them justice. It is with this in mind that I have arrived at the following decision.

My first choice is that of Mariwood Crady. She has excellent features and there is a certain brightness to her expression, and therefore I have chosen her as my prospect. In the second position I place Lynda Helms, third Patsy Murphy and fourth Martha Knowlton.

Thank you again for the pleasure of selecting your Miss Sewanee.

Sincerely yours,

James A. Quigney

HOW THEY WERE CHOSEN

Early last Fall the "Miss Sewanee contest" was opened for any student in the University to submit a photograph. A panel consisting of several faculty members and representatives of the CAP AND GOWN selected the nine finalists from approximately fifty contestants. These pictures were then sent to Mr. James A. Quigney, Photography Editor of Collier's Magazine in New York. For his time and effort in helping us with this we sincerely thank him. The following are his selections.

To a Sewanee man graduation is the culmination of many more things than just four years of being away from home and taking a sheepskin. It is the end of one kind of life and the beginning of a new one. Sewanee is a conservative kind of education in a changing world. But that is what our founders meant it to be and that is what the administration plans to continue with. It might be described as an education "not to learn how to make a living but how to live." It believes that knowledge of Shakespeare and Marx, Physics and Greek, the Bible and the Canterbury Tales is not lost in the whirl of the machine age. It supports rather than submerges chapel attendance and "reading for knowledge". A Sewanee man spends four years relating the past to the present, studying and improving the latter while profiting from the former. A student's days on the Mountain are filled with activities, fraternity, sports and friendships with people and books. He is a man who remembers the "nights at the Eagle," and "Abbo's class"; he remembers "free rides" and comprehensives. The man who becomes an alumnus remembers his alma mater not just as Sewanee in Tennessee but as Sewanee—a way of life.

SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY

The St. Luke's School of Theology is a seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Established in 1878 as a constituent college of The University of the South with the status of a professional school, it has steadily grown in enrollment until this year it achieved a record high of students. The Theological school is under the same administration as the college having its own dean who handles the bulk of the school's affairs. The faculty of the school is separate from the College of Arts and Sciences.

The School of Theology has continually been on an academic upgrade in the education of Episcopal priests, and the administration intends to further this progress despite the unfortunate social problems that have beset and involved the welfare of the whole university during the past year. Although, as the Vice-Chancellor has said, the University is neither in a position nor supplied with the facilities to solve the complex social ills of the country in our particular environment, whatever the outcome of the conflict may be the Theological School will continue to further its essential mission of preparation for Christian teaching.

Every Day Was a Busy Day

— D I V E R S I O N S

Activities serve all kinds of purposes and there are all kinds of activities at Sewanee. Among the purposes are: clubs to increase the size of the paragraph after your name in the annual; points for honor societies leading to completion of "key" collections; excuses for cutting classes and not doing homework; getting your name in the paper; and doing something between sacktime, the eagle, and the flick, that you like. Among the kinds there are many. Frustrated journalists tackle the monstrous job of publications where the attempt to please all of the people all of the time generally achieving the very opposite result. Ambitious thespians enter dramatics and consume many gallons of coffee and valuable hours practicing productions. These are then given in the new auditorium which has unlimited seating capacity mainly because everyone wants to stand. Vocal chords may be heard exercising from the choir room while down the street the social clubs in costume are gathering "fuel" for a gay parade. Over at the gym the cheerleaders are busy polishing their white bucks and cleaning their white ducks while the unsung heroes of the German Club attempt to convert the basketball court into a Waldorf terrace. The gym, however, usually retains its identity. All in all it's a busy life. Occasionally studies interfere with the sundry activities, but this interruption is kept at a minimum.

FIRST SEMESTER OFFICERS

SECOND SEMESTER OFFICERS

The privilege of wearing the black academic gown is won by juniors and seniors and graduate students who have passed a certain number of hours. The further right of unlimited class cuts is granted if the average is 2.65 or at mid-semester unlimiteds in every subject with a "B" average. Professors and students wear the gowns during all classes and chapel.

The Order was founded in 1873 and has since evolved into the governing body of the College of Arts and Sciences. The gown, which is inherited from Oxford, is symbolic of Sewanee's pure and classical learning. Its members are charged with responsibilities of leadership and guidance of the University. The executive committee, which meets once a month to prepare the agenda for the meeting of the Order, is composed of the President, Vice-President and Secretary of the Order plus one member from each fraternity and Independents. The Discipline Committee is composed of fraternity representatives and Independents and controls freshman regulations and other campus violations.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, has as its purpose the recognition of high academic attainment. It seeks to foster and to develop the spirit of active scholarship and encourages students of intellectual prowess to assume leadership in student affairs. Founded in 1776 at the College of William and Mary, it is the oldest fraternity in America. Election to Phi Beta Kappa is perhaps the highest honor a student can receive in College. Those eligible for membership must have a 3.50 average for 75 hours or a 3.25 average for 105 hours. Sewanee's chapter of the society, known as Tennessee Beta, was founded in 1926.

The elder statesmen of campus activities are the members of Omicron Delta Kappa, an honor society for outstanding leaders among the male students. The purpose of the society is threefold: first, to recognize men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in collegiate activities and to inspire others to strive for conspicuous attainments along similar lines; second, to bring together the most representative men in all phases of collegiate life and thus to create an organization which will help to mould the sentiments of the institution on questions of local and intercollegiate interest; third, to bring together members of the faculty and student body of the institution on a basis of mutual interest and understanding. Membership in Sewanee's Alpha Alpha Circle is limited to three per cent of the student body with at least junior standing.

BLUE KEY

It has really been a Blue Key year on the Sewanee campus. This national honorary fraternity which recognizes both leadership and service has been more than just busy under the presidency of Tito Hill with campus projects. Among its many activities were the handling of the selection of the Homecoming Queen and Homecoming Decorations. It also sponsored a campus-wide collection for the community school children's lunch money. One new project this year was the formation of a group to put on a Sewanee radio program from a local station that would feature all phases of Sewanee life. Also this was the first year of the new Sewanee Engagement Calendar which Blue Key helped to distribute. Other fraternity activities include ushering in the auditorium and chapel; sponsoring the intramural all-star game, the interfraternity sing and the annual debate tournament.

Highlight of a Weekend— THE GERMANS

Doug Lore and Bunn Gray begin the long job of decorating the gym

The night of the German turns out to be successful and enjoyed by all

"The best in years" . . . that was the opinion voiced by students, professors and old grads about the German Club's Homecoming Dance in October. That gala affair, featuring the ever popular Owen Bradley, set a standard for the dance weekends to follow. The Thanksgiving festivities were climaxed by the Saturday night German and in '53 the new semester was opened in grand style as Buddy Morrow's Band enhanced the merriment of the Mid-Winter Dance.

The German Club's founding occurred within a decade after the University opened its doors and its name comes from a dance popular in the last century. However, since the '80's when gentlemen and their belles danced the German until dawn in old Forensic Hall, the club has seen much dance history pass. One step in this evolutionary process was taken this year when the club discontinued the practice of employing two bands and began using only one band on its successful weekends. With a solid past, the club is looking forward to as interesting a life in the next seventy years to come.

No one, including the editor, ever quite realizes what a yearbook is going to look like until it actually arrives on that glorious day in the Spring. This year was especially hectic. Things started to buzz in June of 1952 when the new staff took over and the idea was born that in publications as in politics it was time for a change. So we changed from cover to cover. It took a lot more work and worry. But somehow we finally grew into our new 9x12 jacket and here she is—our new baby—and we, the staff, are proud parents of what we hope will be a new page in Sewanee Cap and Gown history.

THE SEWANEE PURPLE

The motors of the journalism bugs start to hum on Wednesday. It's a mad race. First they have to get some news and then keep it quiet until the paper hits the stands. Then they try to think up some "new" features—ones that at least a third of the students will be satisfied by. Next the problem is what pictures to take and where to put them. The fotog has gone for the weekend of course. The first five cartoons submitted are lousy. The deadline of Monday approaches and only half the copy is in and a third more has to be rewritten. There seems to be no controversial subject for an editorial except editorials themselves. It's a mad frenzy. The press finally rolls and the Purple is somehow on time. This is a terse approximation of the life of Sewanee newspapermen. It has been a tough year with a young staff but the paper has maintained its usual high standard of quality and earned the praise of all. Last year the paper won its first All-American award from the National Collegiate Press Association and with the continued expansion and improvement of this year we should do it again.

THE MOUNTAIN GOAT

This, the third year of the recently revived and revitalized Mountain Goat, witnessed two successful issues of the combination literary and humor magazine. Under the guidance of Charlie (let's keep it clean) Jennings and Bill (don't patronize the non-advertisers) Prëntiss the work was somehow always completed in time to present the campus with a sometimes semi-obscure, but always riotous edition of student literary talent.

DRAMATICS played its role

"It's great, excellent, and doggone good," echoed the campus. What was it? Why, another Purple Masque production of course. With the long and tedious hours of work completed, and the thrill of the theatre confined to memory, the Purple Masque players look back on capacity audiences, gratifying applause, and many fine reviews. Betty Medford starred in the Glass Menagerie to set a precedent of high quality for the many other polished productions to maintain.

Right: All is exciting confusion behind the scenes of a Purple Masque production as the actors put the finishing touches on their make-up while the backstage crews make their final check before curtain time.

Albert Neilus, on or off the stage, was invaluable, along with the "behind the scenes men" such as Sherrill, Heinsohn, and Prentiss. Dorothy Fry and Chet Boynton proved unforgettable in Twelfth Night and the memorable stand of one act plays was even more successful than in previous years.

Probably the organization that receives the most faithful attendance at its regular Monday night practices is the University Choir. One of the most representative organizations of Sewanee Life, the choir is composed of a large segment of the students. Its membership is open to those of any religious denomination. The group leads the singing in Chapel during the week and presents each Sunday a meticulously produced anthem. The Choir also presents many special programs before Christmas, during Holy Week, and at commencement. Under the able and long experienced direction of Mr. Paul McConnell, the group has received much fame and was heard all over America through the facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System in a program of Church Music. They also make frequent tours to cities throughout the South including this year Memphis and Nashville.

The Crucifer leads the Choir in the processional to open the inauguration ceremonies of Dr. McCrady on October 10, 1952.

Blending Voices of the CHOIR

The vestry is designed to play an important part in campus life by fostering local plans and programs to further the Christian spirit at Sewanee, and by assisting the Chaplain in his work. During the recent school year, the Vestry sponsored a program of short noon-hour chapel talks by University professors on timely subjects such as the meaning of "an individual" from the Christian viewpoint and a lecture on "Religion versus the Chicago Ethical Society." Speakers in the fields of science and athletics were presented to show the relation of certain activities to the Church.

The All Saints' Acolyte Guild is an integral part of Sewanee's Christian life. It is composed of young men in the University and furnishes daily five trained servers for the three services. Throughout the school year there are over seven hundred services which the Guild aids. The group also has various community functions including provision of lunch milk for children of the colored schools with funds raised from University students during the annual Milk Fund Drive. They also sponsor the Christmas party for the colored children of St. Mark's. One of the groups main purposes is to give more men an opportunity to participate in the religious activities of the college and to learn the correct methods of serving.

ACOLYTE GUILD

R. O. T. C. CADET CLUB

Formed during the first year of the Air Force R.O.T.C. program at Sewanee, the Cadet Club is directed by commissioned members of the R.O.T.C. The Club's main purpose is to direct and promote social activities of the Corps, paramount of which is the Military Ball sponsored each Spring as the climax of the Military Week. Members of the R.O.T.C. pay yearly dues to the club which it uses to secure a band for the dance. Payment of the dues entitles any cadet to all the activities of the club while any other student at the University may attend with the purchase of a regular ticket.

Newly formed this year, this society is an organization of AF ROTC Cadets at Sewanee. Its purpose is to further the mission of the United States Air Force at college and university levels by encouraging greater teamwork, technical knowledge, and cooperation among the students enrolled in the ROTC program. Members are selected from the advanced program who show a high degree of interest in the Air Force and the military security of the United States. It offers further training and instruction in the Air Force courses and promoted the Air Scout movement. It also organizes and performs special demonstrations to take place at college functions. While it is new this year, the Sewanee Society hopes to become one of the highest merits of achievement in the Corps on the Mountain.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

One of Sewanee's very active groups is the Independent Men's Organization which is composed of the non-Greeks on the Mountain. Their executive committee is elected from the men and they act as a coordinating body for the various activities. Their clubroom under old Magnolia is always occupied by eager ping-pong players, card sharks or just a bull session. When the Mountain is celebrating a big German the Independents always have one of the best parties going on. They also sponsor several open houses for the whole Sewanee community throughout the year and participate in the intramural sports, the Blue Key Inter-fraternity Sing and Homecoming Activities.

This has been a stellar year with the publications board. Under the new chairmanship of Dr. Monroe Spears, editor of the Sewanee Review, the board has fixed its meetings regularly once a month at which time it reviews and checks the status of all University publications. Three faculty members appointed by the Vice-chancellor and two students elected by the Order of Gownsmen compose the Board. Editors and business managers of the paper, year-book magazine are non-voting members. This year the board has tried to keep a closer watch on student publications and encourage students to do likewise. It endorsed the proposal for including the price of the publications in tuition instead of paying for them extra and studied new ways to finance them. It also tries to discuss methods for improving both University publications and printing processes.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

W H O ' S W H O

Each year Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges recognizes students from approximately six hundred colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. In selecting students to be recommended, the campus nominating committee considers outstanding effort and accomplishment in academic work, extra curricular activities and service to the University. Inclusion in the publication is a national honor and serves as an incentive to scholarship and service. The publication, which comes out yearly, represents a cross-section of campus leaders in all phases of collegiate life.

DEBATE COUNCIL

The Debate Council sponsors the inter-collegiate and intramural forensic activities of the University, including all single debates, tournaments and University contests. Reactivated several years ago, the Council's teams participate in state, regional, and national tournaments. The Council directs and assists in all University debating activities including setting up the teams and assisting in instruction in preparation for debates. It sponsors an eight college Sewanee Pre-Season Debate Tournament which this year was won by the Tennessee Polytechnical Institute.

"Well, tell the Proctor." How many times a day is that familiar expression uttered by both matrons and students? The position of proctor is one of the greatest responsibility and thus one of the highest honors that comes to an undergraduate. This group, appointed by the Vice-chancellor on the recommendation of the graduating proctors and the Deans, forms the necessary link between the administration and the students. In addition to being responsible for order and discipline in the dormitories and assisting the matrons in maintenance of the dorms they also supervise activities in the dining hall and chapel and aid the University in any capacity which might fall within their jurisdiction.

The Honor Council and the Honor Code have made it possible for the students of the University of the South to live in a community based on high standards of honorable conduct. Upon entering the college every student must accept the Code which says in part, "That any accurate conception of honor demands that a man shall not lie or cheat or steal . . ." Enforcement of the Code is the responsibility of the entire student body and infractions are referred to the Honor Council, which is composed of two seniors, two juniors, one sophomore and one freshman and one theological student elected annually by their respective classes. Sewanee's unique and effective system works entirely through this group without faculty intervention. It is one of the main characteristics that makes Sewanee what it is and what all are proud of to call Sewanee.

S O P H E R I M

As the mother chapter of Sigma Upsilon, a national literary collegiate fraternity, Sopherim has long played an important role in Sewanee affairs. Its members are elected on the basis of original creation or critical dissertation and must contribute twice a year thereafter to retain active standing.

Through work done on the "Mountain Goat" and by securing lecturers for the student body, the group seeks to promote interest in literary matters. Highpoints in this year's activities included the lecture by Cleanth Brooks in February and the Spring trip to the Calumet Chapter at Vanderbilt where a mutual exchange of material took place.

The Sewanee Music Club, which has as its purpose the furthering of musical appreciation among the students, continued the concert series that was inaugurated and proved so successful last year. Among the many who appeared at the auditorium this year through the efforts of this group and their adviser, Dr. Buck, were Graciela Rivera, the Juilliard String Quartet, the Casale Ensemble, and Pianist Jean Casadesus. The Club also arranges informal gatherings at various Sewanee residences for the purpose of presenting and encouraging local talent.

Alpha Psi Omega recognizes in its membership those students who have shown great contributions to the dramatics at the University. The society is dedicated to the fostering of better dramatics, through guidance of experience. Membership is elective on the basis of work done in Purple Masque. By this method, the membership of the group is a backlog of experience which make them valuable assets to the Sewanee acting program. Members often assist in play promotion and direction. During this year Donald Van Lenten served as president.

Harmony of the Barbershop variety was begun this year by a new group which chose the name of "Mountain Toppers". Composed of University students, the group practiced many times before it made its first public appearance which was simultaneous with the introduction of a new Sewanee song, "Sewanee Beloved" at a University dance. Since then, they are regular requests at the Germans during intermissions where their program includes all the old favorites with new variations. They have also been asked to participate in several alumni meetings through the country including Florida and New York. They hope not only to have an excellent group for harmony themselves, but also to promote group singing again in the University.

MOUNTAIN TOPPERS

HIGHLANDERS

"'N a bonny day to 'e" is the motto of this Scottish Clan which was formed in 1950 for the purpose of promoting Scottish customs and institutions among the students. Members deck out in their respective plaids for all formal occasions and gatherings of the clan. The group added much gaiety to the Homecoming Parade and sponsored several "big" private shindigs of its own. The Highlanders, together with the other two social groups on the Mountain, the Los Peones and the Wellingtons, joined together and sponsored a campus wide party of "cheer" at the Cross in February, proceeds going to the aid of the March of Dimes.

Clan leader this year was Lucas Mac Myers.

LOS PEONES

"Let's have a party" is always a surefire invitation to merriment and good times when the Los Peones assemble. With the avowed purpose of stimulating conversational Spanish and promoting fellowship on the campus, these goodwill ambassadors invariably produce lively proceedings at their social gatherings. Who can ever forget the "Campus Wide Gathering" at the Cross in chilly November or the numerous informal get togethers on dance weekends? The activities of the five year old organization surely deserve the well-known motto: Vivas Los Peones!

The Wellington Club is a society of ancient and well-founded heritage. It is pledged to preserve the Anglo-Saxon traditions of Sewanee and to fight most diligently all Scotchmen, Saracens, Frenchmen, and especially all Spaniards. Only those with proven noble birth and descent are allowed to sit within their honored peers. This year the dignified society was led by Prime Minister Benam Sims, Sir Bertram Wyatt-Brown, President of the Privy Seal; Sir Irvin Jones, Secretary of the Council; Lord Fletcher of Montbrook, marshal; and Lord Hodgkins, sergent-at-arms.

As of this writing, it is fairly safe to say that the "bug is gone", but we knock on wood and the fire hydrant just in case. The activities of this organization have been extremely curtailed since the unprecedented outbreak of flames last school year and this is pleasing to all. Composed of student volunteers from the University, the group practices throughout the year in preparation for all kinds of fire fighting. Equipment is furnished by the University, including a completely outfitted fire truck. Many extra recruits were needed in early Fall when there was an outbreak of forest fires throughout Tennessee which, for awhile, even threatened the Domain.

Sewanee's two year old Department of Air Science and Tactics was established by the University and the U. S. Air Force to enable qualified undergraduates to earn reserve commissions as second lieutenants in the U. S. Air Force while completing their baccalaureate degree requirements. The four year course, which has much in common with Sewanee's basic philosophy of liberal arts education, also augments the extra-curricular activities of the University through such mediums as the Unit band and the Cadet Club.

The 1952-53 session proved to be a significant year for the growing Corps. The step taken by the Corps of Cadets in organizing and largely administering its own operations was the first hint of the many innovations and successes to follow.

impressive and highly successful Military Week. The numerous organized trips to nearby Air Force bases throughout the year served the two-fold purpose of practical military instruction and publicity for the entire unit. The high acclaim awarded to the Elite Flight at Sewart Air Force Base and to the band at Mardi Gras are only two of the many examples attesting to the excellence of the unit's organizations as viewed by outsiders.

It had taken time to accustom oneself to the rigours of military custom, the practice of military courtesy, and the strangeness of uniforms, but those who participated on that memorable occasion realized that a transformation had taken place. During the course of a year an efficient military group had developed and young men had found pleasure in learning how to serve their country. Robert C. MILITARY ACTIVITIES

Of prime importance in the life and development of the Corps of Cadets are the band, cadet club, and rifle team. Under the direction of the Reverend Claude Guthrie, an honorary cadet major, the band drills with the Corps, gives concerts and plays for various University functions. In February the band traveled to New Orleans where they took part in the fabulous Mardi Gras parade. The Sewanee Rifle Team, under the directions of M/Sgt. W. B. Hawkins, holds weekly practice sessions and this year competed in seven meets, one of which was the annual William Randolph Hearst rifle competition.

United With a Winning Purpose

"When I first came to Sewanee I had my doubts about finding the athletic program very satisfying since I had been associated with sports of a very different sort.

In the few months that I have been here I have undergone a complete conversion. Now I know more clearly the role of sports in a man's education, or, for that matter, in his life itself. It is refreshing to discover athletics designed to occupy its proper perspective in the educational system—as a neat little pocket in the over-all scheme of education and character training and living—with sports aimed at complementing a man's field of knowledge, rather than becoming a complete and sometimes frightening end within itself. I no longer have any fear that American colleges will be destroyed by the Frankenstein of athletics which some have created. Sooner or later, I am sure, Sewanee's example will show the way for all of them to return to athletics as it was meant to be."

The above was written by Sewanee's new assistant football coach, Ernie Williamson, who has behind him an admirable record with the Washington Redskins in addition to several years of collegiate coaching experience. It reflects, perhaps better than any old Sewanee man could, this major part of life on the Mountain—the TEAMWORK that complements its every phase—united with a winning purpose.

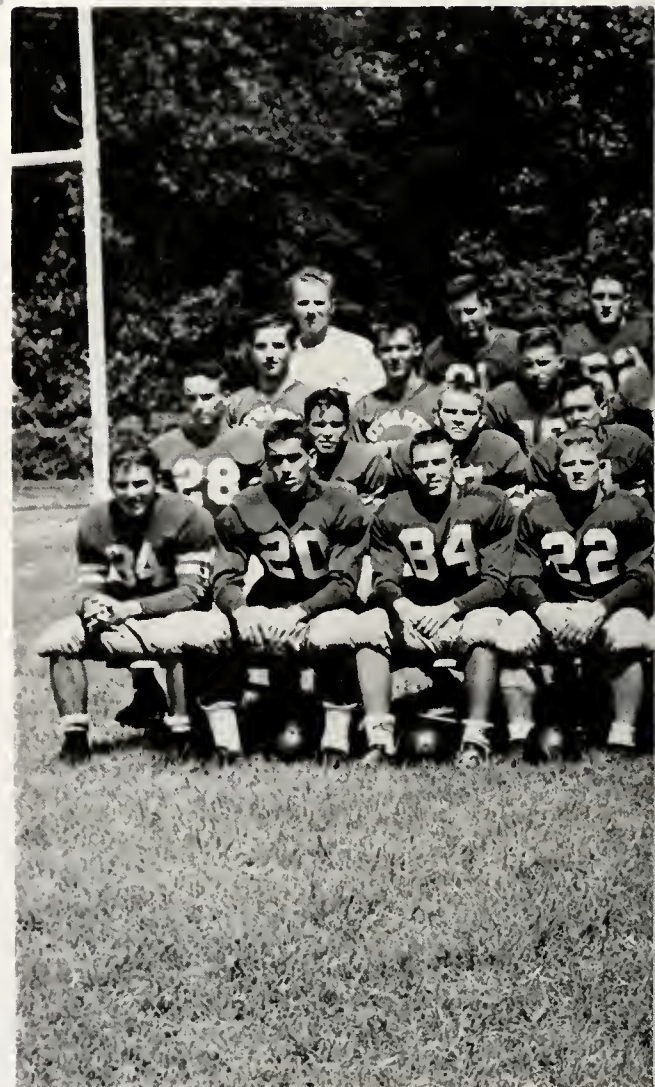

"We do not give scholarships, no, not a one. Boys at Small College play just for fun."

The Tiger team looked big and rough, so big and rough, in fact, that everybody planned to play us on their homecoming date, and then we had the audacity to spoil all of them. What a pity. But, as the fortunes of war would have it, Wabash ruined ours, and that really was a pity.

Great Year on the GRIDIRON

Looking back, there were few regrets, except that Howard game. Poor Howard, we really feel sorry for them next year. Then there was mighty Centre, Little All-American studded and awesome to behold. They stayed in a nine man line all day to stop our running attack, so the air was filled with pigskins and the mighty Praying Colonels are still asking the Almighty what happened.

Hampden-Sydney opened the flood gates and covered the field with water, but the Tiger was amphibious and, true to form, spoiled another homecoming.

It was the North vs. the South all over again when the Big Bad Bears from Yankeeland invaded the Mountain. General White was ailing and it looked bad for the Deep South boys, but again, amid cries of, "Go home, Yankees", the Yankees did go home, and quite the worse for wear after a sound drubbing.

After the smoke of battle had finally cleared, the Tiger team had had themselves their best and most inspiring season in 43 years.

The Bethel game turned out to be a preview of what Tiger opponents could expect for the rest of the season. Backs Bobby Parkes and Gordon Sorrell passed and ran the Tiger team to a one-sided 27-0 score before Coach White emptied the bench. Three times Gordon Sorrell broke away for long runs, only to have two of them called back.

Every Sewanee fan breathed a sigh of relief and the Tigers had notched another win after the Mississippi College game. In a hectic struggle that saw the lead change three times, Sewanee squeaked by the Tough Choctaws in Clinton, Miss., 12-7. It was then that the Tigers turned to come from behind as they started a drive that ended with Buddy Wilson going forty yards for another score. An injury ridden Tiger eleven took the field against fired up and ready Howard at Birmingham. The boys from the Mountain just couldn't get started while Howard playing before a hometown crowd of 5,000 went all out and took home the bacon 13-0. In the second quarter, Howard's Bobby Bowden shook loose and romped 81 yards to score.

Trailing 14-0 at the end of the first quarter, the Wabash grid machine scored twice in the second and third periods and once in the fourth to down the Purple Tigers in their homecoming game 31-14. Vaino Grayam stole the show for the Little Giants with three touchdown passes, two of them to end Tom Hankinson.

After the half it looked like Sewanee might yet pull it out of the fire as the line, led by Andy Hibbert and Lee Lance, stiffened and held the Birmingham boys. But their last hope was lost when Howard intercepted a Parkes pass and quickly turned it into another score. It was just a case of one team being ready and the other not.

Bobby Parkes accounted for both of Sewanee's scores, running over for the first and passing to Jim Rox for the second. The improving Wabash defense held the Tigers to short drives after the first period and from then on Sewanee was fighting to defend its own goal against the Wabash aerial attack. Standouts of Sewanee's stubborn defense were Andy Hibbert and linebacker Lee Glenn.

For the Southwestern game, Coach White used the two platoon system for the first time. It was the turning point of the season. A well rested offensive unit unleashed a devastating running attack that netted 312 yards while the defense held the Lynx to a meager 97 yards in total offense.

After the Howard defeat Sewanee got rolling again with a thumping defeat of Millsaps, who for three years had been the Tigers' nemesis. The hard charging Sewanee forward, led by Captain Jim Elam, Bill Austin, and newcomer Lee Lance outmanned and outplayed the best that Millsaps could muster. David Jones scored first from the two-yard line after Bobby Parkes and Gordon Sorrel had sparked a sustained drive that started from the twenty.

Bill Porter's automatic toe didn't miss and the final score was 35-0 with Sewanee way out on top.

Early in the third quarter end Dave Palmer gave the crowd its biggest thrill of the day as he snagged one of Bobby Parkes' aerials, turned halfback and snakehipped forty yards for the second score. Millsaps scored twice in the fourth quarter, but Gordon Sorrel more than made up for that with two long scoring runs that made the final score 27-15 in favor of Sewanee.

Against Centre, the Tigers unleashed a "secret weapon" in the arm of Bobby Parkes who broke all existing Sewanee records in completing five touchdown passes to down the highly touted Praying Colonels 48-14.

In a game highlighted by vicious line play, Sewanee displayed for the first time of the season a dazzling aerial attack. Three times Parkes hit Skeeter Hale in the end zone and twice more found open receivers in the persons of Jim Rox and Bill Porter. All for T.D.'s

For a brief period in the second quarter when the Colonels tied up the score it looked like they might make things rough for the Tigers but from there on out it was a Purple jersey every time. The Little All-American studded Centre offense sputtered and their defense failed to hold back a tough and determined Tiger team as they notched victory number five.

The high riding mountain men, fresh from two overwhelming victories, journeyed to Virginia to do battle with an old rival, Hampden-Sydney's Tigers on Nov 19th.

Their vaunted aerial attack hampered by a rain-soaked field, the Tigers were well content with a close 7-0 victory over the fired up Virginia club. Neither team was able to mount much of an offense in the sea of mud and the outcome was decided quickly in the third quarter when Al Metcalfe blocked a Hampden-Sydney punt and Dave Palmer covered it in the end-zone. Bill Porter's conversion was good and that wrapped up the afternoon's scoring activities. Bobby Parkes again paced the Sewanee offense while Ends Dave Palmer and Jim Finley stood out in a powerful forward defense.

SEWANEE 22; WASHINGTON 12

Closing out the season in typical rip-snorting style, a determined, never-say-die Tiger team met and defeated an arch rival, Washington University, for their seventh win of the season. The victory wiped a 43 year old won-lost record off the annals of Sewanee Football.

For the first time in modern history the Tigers played without the guiding hand of Coach White who was ill. Despite the handicap, eleven Tiger men outplayed and outfought eleven bigger and more experienced opponents at every turn and in every department. That was the story of the game. The Tigers never gave up. They pushed their heavier rivals around like ten pins, opening holes which David Jones and Bobby Parkes took ample advantage of.

A frenzied crowd was kept on its feet most of the game as the Tigers repeatedly fought themselves out of the hole and moved to pay dirt. Comments on the game ran, like this: "Greatest game I have ever seen a Sewanee team play," and, "Finest exhibition of courage I have ever seen." Statistics proved that the win was no fluke. Sewanee ran up 22 first downs to Washington's 9 and amassed 356 yards in total offense to the Bear 152.

It was the finest possible climax for a great season and a fine team. Sewanee may well be proud of her gridiron sons.

Coach Lon Varnell's cage charges put together a 14-5 win record to write the best chapter yet in Sewanee basketball history.

Starting off the season slowly, the Tigers lost two heartbreakers, one to Mississippi State and another to Centre College. The Mississippi State game was a real slam-bang affair. Going into the fourth quarter, Sewanee held an eight point lead, but could not hold off a determined State bid in the final minutes, despite the sterling play of Bill Crawford, and Mississippi State won it 70-63.

In the before Christmas games, the Tigers found the going particularly rough, losing to Howard and Rollins while defeating Middle Tennessee and F.S.U.

After the holidays it was a different story. The relatively young team began to find itself as Larry Isackson and Glenn Schaefer started hitting the basket with uncanny precision. The Birmingham-Southern game on January 10 was the turning point. Larry Isackson broke the individual scoring record with 35. Skeeter Hale and Louis Knipp led a tough defense and the whole team seemed to catch fire.

After the Birmingham-Southern walk away, Berry College put its undefeated record on the line. The Tigers were unimpressed and handed the Georgia boys the short side of an 84-73 score.

At Southwestern on January 17th, the Tigers were handicapped by the loss of Coach Varnell who was out with illness. "B" team Coach Bob Lockard, however, handled the boys exceptionally well as the 96-54 score, the largest in school history, would indicate.

The next three games with Lambuth, Howard and Bethel were perhaps the finest of the season in team performance. Gene Eyler, fireball guard, sparked the team with dazzling offensive and defensive play while Larry Isackson continued to pour in the points along with teammates "Radar" Rox and Bill Crawford. Glenn Schaefer, consistent throughout the year, also came up with fine showings.

The only loss after the Christmas holidays was registered against Sewanee when M.T.S.C. caught the mountain cagers on an off night and scored an 85-73 victory. It was the last loss of the season.

After the loss to M.T.S.C. the Tigers marched on Mississippi to play two arch rivals, Millsaps and Mississippi College. Both these teams were beaten and the Tigers returned to the mountain to close out their season with wins over Birmingham-Southern and Southwestern.

Many factors contributed to the success of the season. First and foremost was the exceptional coaching of Lon Varnell. Mr. Basketball proved himself both a fine teacher and material gatherer. Another prominent factor was a bench full of eager and able reserves like Walter Barnes, Joe McCrory, Weddle, Alligood and Green, and Handicapped by lack of experience and a late start, the Sewanee harriers ran hard, but were victors in only one of their three dual and two invitational meets. The Tigers opened the season against Maryville, and while losing, held their opponents to the closest score since the War. Sewanee was out for a second in the Bryan Invitational Meet, and the following week again fell to the perennially strong Maryville runners. Doug Crane led the way as the Purple Tigers slaughtered Bryan at the half of the Washington game, and the harriers finished the season the following Thursday with a fourth in the Shamrock Invitational Meet at Louisville. Coach Shotwell expects great things next year if the five returning letter winners continue to improve as they did throughout the 1952 season. Lettermen are Tommy Robertson, Ralph Patson, Don Crane, Doug Crane, Stetson Fleming, Elliot Puckette, and George Hunt (Manager).

For the first time since the war the squad will have no give-away spots. Seasoned performers are returning in every event.

Last year's record was impressive with three wins against two losses and a third place in the T.I.A.C. meet. Howard, Union, and Emory fell to the Tigers but Kentucky and Vanderbilt proved to be too strong. Against Kentucky Tito Hill set a new broad jump record of 22'4".

As the season opened five members of the squad gave a premier of the coming campaign with an excellent showing against top flight talent in the North Carolina Indoor Meet. Pounding the boards for Sewanee were Criddle, Boulton, Mixon and Robertson and newcomer Walter Barnes.

With ability abounding all over the cinder path, it appears that Tiger opponents are in for another rough season.

1953 TENNIS TEAM

On the COURTS . . .

The 1952 Tiger net team, under the leadership of Dr. Bruton, again had the best won-loss record on the Mountain with thirteen victories in dual matches against only two defeats. The Tigers opened the season with six straight wins in their triumphant march through South Carolina. The racquet squad's only losses were at the hands of their strong SEC opponents, Vanderbilt and Tennessee, while their victories included those over Georgian, Bradley, Alabama, Middle Tennessee State, Maryville, Emory, and Southwestern.

Sewanee, the host team, took the TIAC Tournament for the tenth time in fourteen attempts. Jackson won the singles by defeating White in the finals, while Jackson and White teamed up to take the doubles match from Gibson and Keyser.

The success of the 1953 squad is still unpredictable, but two promising newcomers, Dick Briggs and Howard Pritchard, are expected to bolster the returning lettermen, Webb White, George Wagner, Keith Fort, and John Cater.

. . . and the COURSE

Last spring the Sewanee golfers enjoyed one of their best seasons with a record of nine wins and two losses including splits in four SEC matches. The Sewanee team, composed of Gene Eyler, Ray Terry, Charlie Wiehrs, Jim Wheeler, John McWhirter, and Frank Kelso, successfully defended its TIAC crown with Gene Eyler winning the individual title for the second consecutive year. At the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament in Athens, Georgia, Ray Terry placed tenth in a field of nearly a hundred of the South's finest collegiate golfers. Undoubtedly their outstanding record of wins and losses would be more striking if it were not for the fact that three matches, in which Sewanee was winning decisively, were cancelled due to rain.

The spring of 1953 shows only Gene Eyler, Ray Terry, and John McWhirter back from last year's team, but with such freshmen as Charles Furman, Tommy Thagard, and Jay Butler, Mr. Cheston is expected to form another championship team.

Membership in the "S" Club at Sewanee is an honor achieved by earning a letter in any one of the varsity sports. The club this year has focused its activities primarily on a memorial project to the late Gordon Clar, Sewanee's Athletic Director. It was decided to name the Intramural field after him and also to erect a memorial plaque. Other activities of the club included selling refreshments after all Home games and helping out in athletic functions. Profits of the refreshment sales were used for charitable donations and also to throw a big party for the whole club in the Spring.

This group of lively jumping jacks spend most of their time amazing the spectators of University athletic events by their acrobatics on the field or hardwood. This year, under the cheerleadership of John Broome, the number of two-legged fog horns was increased to nine which supposedly increased volume to that of hundreds. They have done an excellent job in raising spirit at all varsity games and also in providing unusual halftime entertainment. The boys played no small part in helping to put over one of the best Homecoming parades in Sewanee's history and in leading pep rallies and dining hall cheers. To Sewanee's successful year on the gridiron should also be added that it was a most successful year in the stands with the final and greatest Washington game leaving a lasting impression on everyone in both respects.

Leaders of CHEER

Keen Competition of INTRAMURALS . . .

Ralph Patston, closely followed by Tommy Robertson, took first place in Sewanee's traditional Cake Race. Team champions were the Phi Gams with the Sigma Nus and ATOs trailing in that order.

Tops in volleyball were the defending champions, Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, which finished the season with their record unmarred. Runners-up were the Phi Delts, the league's tallest team, who were losers only to the champs. A post season play-off resulted in third place going to the Sigma Nus and fourth to the Delts.

The Independents were the surprise winners of the race for the intramural basketball trophy with the pre-season choices, the ATOs and the Phis, being forced to be content with third and fourth places respectively. The Indies capitalized on their teamwork, speed, and accuracy to make up for their lack of height with so much success that the ATO game was the only one in which they were hard pressed for victory. Fourth fell to the SAES who finished the season with a six-four record.

THE INTRAMURAL COUNCIL

The Intramural Council is responsible for the supervision and direction of the intramural program which consists of five major sports and six minor ones. The council is composed of one representative from each fraternity, the Independent group, and the Theological School. Coach Clark served as the advisor of the Council until his death, and Coach Bridgers succeeded him in this capacity.

. . . All Year Long

The Phis captured the intramural football trophy for the second consecutive year. Led by passer Dick Corbin, ends Ray Terry and John Fletcher, and center Bill Tynes, the champions were able to keep their record unmarred. Their ability to win the close ones was tested several times including their contests with the Phi Gams, Sigma Nus, Theologs, and ATOs, but each time they managed to come out on top.

Action on the intramural field

Runners-up were the Phi Gams, who capitalized on the throwing arm of D. Baker and the receiving of Jim Dezell and Ed Sharp plus the defensive work of Ed Duggan to finish with nine wins and only one loss.

Two dark horses, the Theologs and the ATOs, took third and fourth in that order. The key to the ATO's success was an early 14-12 victory over the fifth place Sigma Nus.

A last minute touchdown pass spelled defeat for the champions in the post-season, Blue Key-sponsored All-Star game, which the All-stars won 12-7.

B.S. The University of The South
Director of Athletics

Behind every worthwhile idea that has come into being and general acceptance there has been one man whose character had the necessary mixture of intelligence, single-mindedness of purpose, and courage to give that idea body. Such a man was Coach Clark. He dedicated his life to the idea of clean sports, of sports for the love of sport, to starting a movement which will probably effect thousands of American youths for generations to come. Coach Clark was the living embodiment of the Sewanee plan. No higher tribute can be paid any man than to say that his life was given sincerely to the furthering of a great and noble idea.

We Lift Our Cups on High

— B R O T H E R H O O D

Breslin was ringing midnight, and all was still and quiet in the small dorm room. In the middle sack was Rodney, a freshman from Oscaloma, N. C. Rodney had undergone a tiresome week of rush parties and hot boxes. But Rodney could not sleep. He was bewildered. "Which frat should I join?" he groaned. All the boys seemed so nice—like long-lost brothers! Rodney was impressed out of his mind.

"Gee," he thought, "should I go SAE? They were good guys and all those pictures of their athletes were impressive. What about the KA's? They were swell but I don't know whether they would take me. I'm from North Carolina and they don't like Yankees.

The Betas are nice, too. I wonder what BO dot I I means? They all wear those awful striped ties. And the Phis; their house is a castle. They dress like Betas, too. The Betas were singing a toast to the PDT ladies, and the Phis were singing a nice song about the Betas—"Let's All Go Down to the Beta House."

"The Kappa Sigs were swell, and such a big living room!

I wonder why everyone there wore ten-gallon hats and spurs?" Then he thought, "I liked the ATO's—the ones I met. But there were so many of them.

Now where did I see that silly mummy? Oh, yeah, at the Delt house. The Sigma Nu's were swell, too. They were the ones who warned me about some sort of hot box. And then there are the Phi Gams.

I wonder why they had me sing up the scale?" As Rodney lay there, restless and confused, he suddenly sat up. "Hey, I know what I'll join. The German Club—I had two years in prep school."

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

Officers for 1952-53 from the Kappa Alpha Order were Gil Dent, secretary, and Howell McKay, president.

Activity starts rolling in the Pan-Hellenic Council with the beginning of Rush Week in the Fall which is the main task of the year. The countless details of Sewanee's Rush system are mainly tended to by the Council. Throughout the year the group meets at least once a month to discuss problems of rushing and inter-fraternity relations among the nine Greek societies on the Mountain. Each fraternity is represented by two members; its president and one member elected for a term of one year. The presidency and secretaryship rotate among the fraternities.

The culmination of a hectic rush week is the gala and wild pledge parade that follows formal bidding. This parade appears to be ending at the Union but many segments continue to the Eagle.

Looking back over this past year we remember many things . . . Bobby, Jonsey, Gumshoe, Geechie, and Snooze on the gridiron . . . Lou, Schaf, and Larry on the basketball court . . . Put-put plugging away at cross country . . . We also remember many gay parties . . . troops watching T.V. at 3 A.M. . . . tapped out Taus . . . Lenny and Allen in "Madame Bongo" . . . and Barney singing "Walking My Baby Back Home." . . . top-notch Intramural Basketball team. Wheels we remember were: Jonsey as president of the Gownsmen . . . R. O. as chairman of the Honor Council . . . Barney, Mo-Mo, Brevard, Mike, Jim, and Bo sporting Keys . . . Luke at the helm of the Highlanders . . . and Tom as father of homeless Koreans. Gone at mid-semester were Mumbles to the "wild blue yonder" and Red to the foxholes. We remember going social at the Annual Christmas Party and the Spring Tea. Spring found . . . many Taus pounding the cinders . . . the Blackfoot-Whitefoot Dance . . . more parties . . . Dan trying to get music out of the fraternity for the Blue Key Sing . . . one last fling at commencement and good-byes to the Seniors.

A Year-full . . .

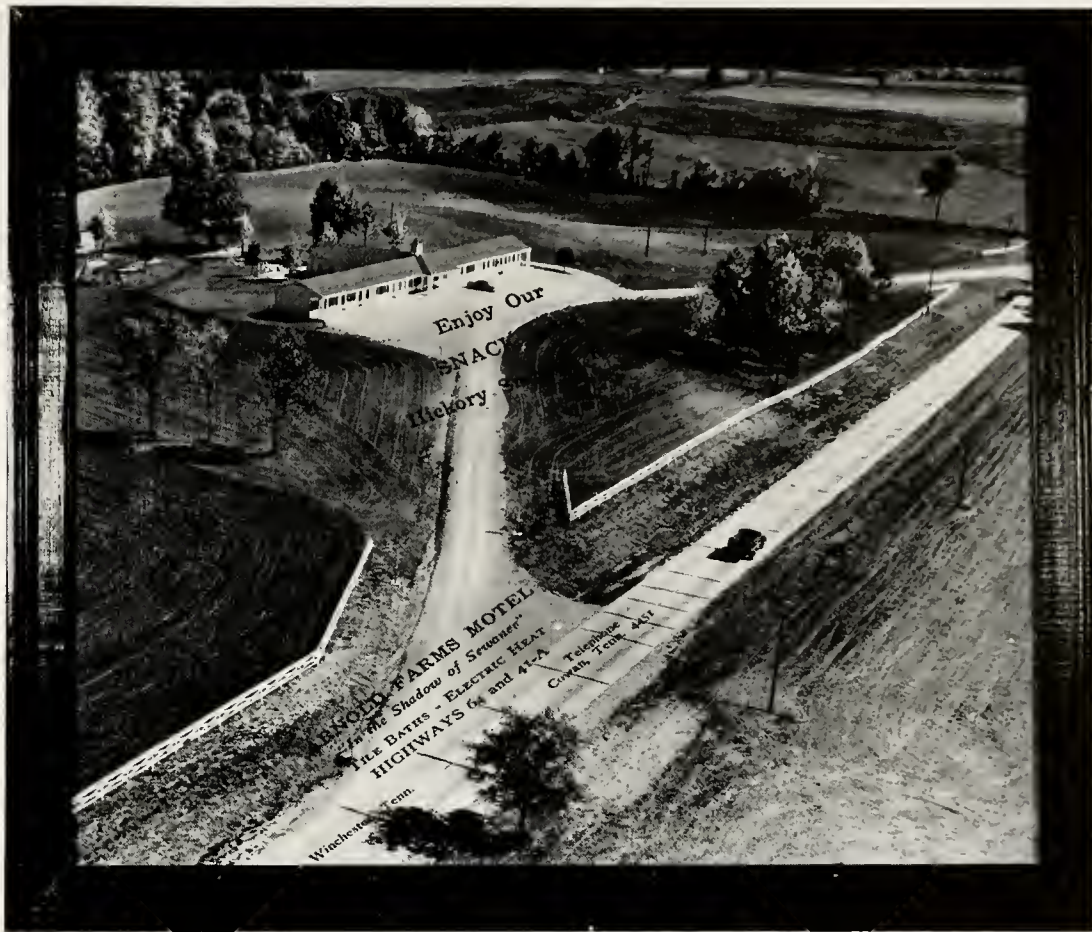

is about the only way to describe 1952-53 at Sewanee. We, the staff, think of it as a particularly eventful year because it is when the CAP AND GOWN grew to 9x12 and started a fresh life. It is far from perfect or satisfying all the needs of Sewanee but it is our contribution to the beginning of an idea which we hope will grow and grow—better and better. But this idea and its fulfillment was not the work of just one or two or three people; it was that of many. Our sincerest thanks go to Mr. John T. Benson, III, of Benson Printing Company, who patiently assisted throughout the year; to Mr. Togo Ucheida of Fabry Studios for his excellent photographic work; to Mr. Robert Faerber of Alabama Engraving Company; to Mr. Howard Coulson of Coulson's Studio; to the Alumni Office for its valuable help; to Mr. Clarence Keiser, whose photographic assistance was indispensable and to all who helped us in the countless tasks which are involved in producing a book of the year—about Sewanee and for Sewanee.

The Road Ahead . . .

It is through these gates that one first meets Sewanee and through them that the graduates of 1953 will pass when they leave after spending their student days on the "Mountain." But they will forever remember the gates as part of the University of the South—on the road that led them to an education whose highest purpose "is to help men to live their lives in the proper relation to God and to their fellow-men."

Our Congratulations to You

Mr. W. Gilbert Dent, III
Editor, 1953 Cap and Gown
University of the South
Sewanee, Tennessee
Dear Gil,

I want to take this opportunity to tell you how much we enjoyed working with you, your staff, and all of the students and faculty at Sewanee in making the portrait photographs for this issue of the Cap and Gown.

Seldom have I seen such enthusiasm as was expressed to me by Mrs. Coker and Togo Uchida, my able assistants who handled the picture making on the campus. They reported that they had never been treated more royally and had never worked with as fine a group of students and that the graciousness of everyone concerned was most genuine.

I hope that on our part we have fulfilled our mission which was to make the photographic quality of the portraits in the Cap and Gown as fine as possible. It was also our desire to implement the production of the pictures in such a manner as to make your work as easy as possible.

We hope we have fulfilled our obligation in as fine a fashion as you and the personnel at Sewanee have fulfilled yours. We look forward to serving you all in the future.

Cordially yours,

Walden S. Fabry
